DETAILED ACTION

The preliminary amendment filed with the Notification of Filing of Continuing, Divisional or Continued Prosecution Application, which referenced the parent application in the first line of the specification, has been entered.

In a letter received by The Office on January 16, 2002, Applicant requested written confirmation that application serial nos. 09/925,711 and 09/925,736 have been recombined into a single file. Earlier correspondences may have suggested that the application was separated into two files. However, the application does not appear to have been separated, but rather it was numbered incorrectly. The current file, serial no. 09/925,711, appears to be complete. File 09/925,711 includes an abstract, specification, claims 1-15, drawings 1-7, a signed declaration, and an Information Disclosure Statement.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on August 9, 2001 has been considered by the examiner.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the deformable covering of claims 11 and 12 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Double Patenting

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claims 1-9 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-9 of copending Application No. 09/780,751. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 11 recites a deformable covering, but there is no support for this in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Goetz US 5,913,537.

Goetz discloses an inflator having a container 12, a rupturable closure member 24, an initiator 20, a retainer 58, and a support 94 for the closure member. See figures 1-4 and column 4, lines 61-66. The container stores inflation fluid under pressure and has an opening. The rupturable closure member is fixed to the container via the retainer and blocks the flow of fluid through the opening. The rupturable closure member also has a first portion 186 deformed into engagement with the support. The initiator includes a support portion 102, and the support is positioned relative to a second retainer part 108 to clamp the support portion between the support and the second retainer part. The retainer includes at least one part having a passage 28 that directs gas flowing from the container in a given direction, wherein the given direction is parallel to the longitudinal axis of the inflator.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goetz US 5,913,537 and Paxton et al. US 5,803,493.

Goetz does not disclose a crimped portion of the retainer that holds the support against the retainer. However, Paxton et al. teaches that supports and retainers can be joined by crimping. See element 54 in figure 2. From the teachings of Paxton et al., joining the support and retainer of Goetz with a crimp, rather than a weld, would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to simplify the assembly process.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Geisreiter and O'Loughlin et al. disclose inflators.
